Details of the Chase After Ex press Robbers.

A Story That Reads Like a Roms "Jim Cummings" as a Letter-Writer-Evidence Obtained.

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.-The complete details of the chase after the Adams' Express robbers, who rifled a safe off the St. Louis & San Francisco road on the night of October 25 of from $55,000 to $50,000, were related by the officers of the Pinkerton National Detective Agency for the first time last night to a reconstantive of the Associated Processing the contractive of the Contractive representative of the Associated Press. The agency has succeeded in agresting five men, named Frederick Whitrock, who is the author of the "Jim Cummings" letters, and who is claimed to be the man who per petrated the robbery; W. W. Haight, an ex-employe of the express company, who is supposed to have aided in planning the robbery from his knowledge of the railroad "run"; Thomas Weaver, a Chicago laundryman, who was with Whit-rock before and after the robbery; Edward Kinney, a brother-in-law of Whitrock, upon whose person was found a considerable por-tion of the express money; and Oscar Cook, who was with Whitrock after the robbery and afterward divided the money and mailed the "Jim Cummings" letters. The detec tives have recovered about $15,000 and esti-mate that from $40,000 to $45,000 is still unmate that from $40,000 to $45,000 is still unaccounted for. The story of the chase has all the dash of a romance about it, and certain features would be regarded as improbable in a fiction. The express car on the St. Louis & San Francisco road was rified on the night of October 25 and the express messenger, David 8. Fotheringham, when discovered by the train hands, was bound and gagged in the car.
He explained that he had admitted a man into the car who presented a letter from, into the car who presented a letter from John B. Babrett, route agent of the express company, the letter explaining that the man was to be employed by the company, and was to be given an opportunity to learn the business. While on the run the stranger

.The Pinkerton agency sent operatives in all directions and the wagon roads running from Pacific Junction, toward the Missauri river were traversed, but only a meager trace was found of any one, and the officials when they returned to St. Louis were completely at sea. In the meantime a letter was addressed by Jim Cummings to the Globe-Democrat of St. Louis, based on which the Pinkertons claim to have compassed the arrest and fixed the crane of all the partici-

In the meantime the detectives had ob In the meantime the detectives had obtained the names of all persons discharged or who had voluntarily left the employ of the express company during the preceding year, and found among them W. W. Haight, who had been discharged nine mouths previous for suggected theft of packages. This man had been a messenger on the road from St. Leuis to Vinita, I. T., covering the same run as was made by Fotheringham. The detectives found that he and Fotheringham had known each other in Kansas City, but there had been no intimacy. Haight was traced to Kansas City and from there to Leavenworth, where his and from there to Leavenworth, where hi father was an immate of the home for disabled soldiers. From Leavenworth it was learned that Haight had come to Chicago where he had been employed as an expres-driver and had also worked for Fred Whit rock, the mysterious Jim Cummings, who was operating a coal yardest the corner of Lincoln and West Lake streets.

Haight left the city October 27, two days after the robbery, stating that he was going to Florida, and his wife followed him some days later. They had been very poer, but showed evidences of sudden affluence immediately after the robbery.

ENVESTIGATING. The investigation by the detectives in Chicago showed that Whitrock had also come from Leavenworth and as he was absent from the city he would not be ques-tioned concerning Haight. When the in tioned concerning Haight. When the in-quiry was pursued respecting Whitrock, it was found that he corresponded closely to the description given of the mysterious Jim Cummings. Further cautious inquiries showed that Whitrock had left the city October 12 with Sam Weaver, the lauxdry man whose place of business is 733 West Lake street and within a few doors of Whitrock's coal yard. It was also learned that the men had taken with them two valises, a shot gun and a musket and ained that they were going to Arkar returned to Chicago October 23.

Some of the handwriting of Whitrock was obtained and submitted to the man who was passing judgment on the letter addressed to the Globe-Democrate. The detectives state that this letter, which was written to exculp pate Fotheringham, professed to tell the facts leading up to the robbery. In this Jim Cummings explained that he had left a package in the Union Depot at St. Louis, which would show that he had a number of the letter heads of the express company and the letter heads of the express company and

At this number was found to be living a woman naived Mrs. Berry, who related that she had had two roogers who corresponded to Whitrock and Weaver. They had come to her house October 18 and Weaver departed on the night of October 22, saying he was going the night of October 22, saying he was going the night of October 22, saying he was going the night of October 22, saying he was going the night of October 22, saying he was going the night of October 24, saying he was going the night of October 25, saying he was going the night of October 26, saying he was goi house October 18 and weaver departed on the night of October 22, saying he was going to Kansas City, while Whitrock had left the evening of October 25, explaining that he also intended to go to Kansas City. Mrs. Berry was able to give a close description of both men. Searching the rooms they had occupied two red stamps were found which corresponded to the labels placed on two valiese shipped to St. Louis from St. Charles, as was explained by a study of the Charles, as was explained by a study of the books of the Pacific Express Company, showing that they were the baggage of the two men who had been at the place bargaining for the skiff and provisions.

When all these facts had been gathered a close watch was placed upon Weaver in Chicago and the coal-yard of Whitrock, Chicago and the coal-yard of Whitrock, which was being managed by Kinney. Operatives were also sent to Leavenworth, where Whitrock's mother and sister—both respectable people—were residing. It was found that Haight's wife and child were with Haight's mother in Leavenworth and that Haight's wife was in correspondence with Haight's wife was in correspondence with Haight, who was located in Nashville.

The detectives then decided that they would not molest Weaver, but would await the return of Whitrock.

COOK SHADOWED.

Investigation about this time showed that Oscar Cook, formerly residing at Leaven-worth, a close friend of Whitrock, had gone to Kansas City, where he was working as a cooper in the East Bottoms, and living at a boarding house kept by a woman named Coxe. The story was current there that Cook had won a very large amount of money in a lottery, but this idea was very soon exploded. It was discovered that he had made several trips away from the city, and his journeys were away from the city, and his journeys were always followed by the appearance of one of the Jim Cummings letters. A Pinkerton operative finally became a bosom friend of Cook, visiting gambling houses with him and continuing to shadow him until his ar-rest last Saturday.

In the meantime the shadow on Whitrock was maintained without result until last Tuesday night. On that night the Pinkerton men found another shadow whom they did not know. They saw him enter No. 10 Lin-coln street, the residence of Whitrock, and afterward a man who corresponded to the description of Whitrock also entered the house. In the meantime the brother-in-law had gone to Quincy, where he received a telegram announcing the return of Fred Whitrock to Chicago. A Pinkerton operative had followed Kinney and managed to see these telegrams, which were signed by Rose Whitrock, the wife of the man the destriction of the man the destriction of the control of the man the destriction. tectives were seeking. The Pinkerton office in Chicago was warned, and it only tended to confirm their own suspicions. Whitrock's house was closely shadowed until Friday morning, and it was feared that Whitrock had escaped.

In the meantime Kinney returned to Chicago and he and Weaver were seen to cau-tiously enter the Whitrock house, the blinds of which were constantly drawn, alblinds of which were constantly drawn, at-though the lights could be seen inside. On Friday morning the mysterious shadow came out of the Whitrock house as did also Kinney, and after making a careful survey, Whitrock appeared and the men went south on Lincoln street, showing evident alarm all the while, and finally entering a liquor store kept by an Italian on Madison street

Mobert A. Pinkerton and two operative shadowed the place until Kinney went out, when they entered and arrested Whitrock when they entered and arrested whireout after a sharp struggle. The latter attempted to draw a revolver, two of which were found on his person. He protested against the indignity, but was searched and $110 was taken from a red pocketbook found on his person.

The "shadew" was searched and $4,500 was found on his person. The shadow turned out to be a going man named George W. Burnham, whom Whitrock had met in Savannah, Ga. He explained that he had come north with Whitrock and had shadewed the latter's house as Whitrock had ex-plained that he had shot a man in Chicago in a row and wished to escape arrest. He was afterwards released when he had explained to the satisfaction of the detective that he had no knowledge or connection with the rebbery. When Kinney reap peared he was searched and $1,000 in loose money was found on his person, while in a belt around his waist was found $4,000 additional. These men were ironed and taken to Pinkerton's agency in a close carriage.

A search of the Whitrock house resulted in finding a skirt on Mrs. Whitrock into which $1,900 was sewed in $50 notes. A bunch of money, $450 in all, was also found on her person, together with a 4 harat dis-mond. Weaver was arrested in the coal yard about the same time and in the basement of his house was found $6,000 in some fruit jars. The arrest of Cook and Haight was then ordered.

The detectives state that Cook distributed the money after the robbery and was the go-between. They charge Haight with outlining the robbery and also aiding is the forgery of the letter presented to Fotheringham. Whitrock appears to have been the only man on the train concerned in the robbery, unless Fotheringham was an so-complice.

Whitrock, after the robbery, it is de-clared, joined Cook at the East Bottoms in Kansas City and was hidden until be went South. Whitrock, it is claimed, never before was known to have been engaged in any criminal enterprise.

Few of the curious crowd who as-sembled at the depot were aware of this fact, and the party had departed for Atchi-son before hardly any one was aware of their identity. Some hours later, on the evening train in fact, the party returned to Kansas City, and "Jim Cummings" was placed in a hack and driven to the office of the Adams Empress Company, where he rethe Adams Express Company, where he remained in the custody of detectives until about one o'clock this morning, when he was removed to the St. James Hotel.

While Whitrock, accompanied by Pink erton, was in Atchison, where $10,000 of the stolen money was recovered, detectives in Kansas City were not idle, for from a con-fession made by Whitrock they were enabled to locate $17.300 of the express mone buried in a spot not far from the distillery and secured it all.

Acting on information furnished by Oscar Cook, members of Pinkerton's force re-paired to the East Bottoms yesterday and visited the house occupied by Cook and his family. After a careful season of the premises the detectives discovered nothing but on searching several hundred yards from the house, a bundle of the "swag" was found. The roll amounted to nearly $17,500, and is a portion of Cook's share of the booty. The amney was brought up town and late last evening another search was made, but without success, no more money being found. It is supposed that several thousand dollars are still concealed

ZERO DRIVING MUFF

AMERICAN INSTITUTE 1886.

The MUFF is made of fur, and is lined with LAMB'S WOOL, with a convenient handle and loop inside by which the reins are held firmly and securely, and when on the hands resembles and ordinary mitten. The handle is covered with felt which makes it soft and warm, and being stirrup shape does not cramp the hand, and gives the driver a stronger hold on the reins than any style of holder now in use. ZERO DRIVING MUFF CO.,

104 West 11th Street, New York.
